

Q: How can I get better fuel economy from my Mark VII?

A: An old-fashioned “tune up” is the first place to start, making sure that all filters and fluids are changed regularly and that spark plugs and wires are replaced every 25,000 - 30,000 miles.

Q: My car sinks down over night but raises up when I start it. Why?

A: The air ride system has rubber bags that have about a ten year life span. Just like rubber tires, they should be replaced periodically to maintain optimum comfort and stability.

Q: How can I make my Mark VII faster?

A: Basic go-fast upgrades include a cold air intake, increasing the throttle body size from 55 to 65 mm, replacing spark plugs and upgrading wires to 9mm, and increasing the exhaust size to 2”. Just about any engine upgrade that’s available for a 5.0 Mustang is available for your Lincoln Mark VII!

Q: My car beeps every time that I get in. What is wrong?

A: The onboard Trip Minder System will sound when the car is low on fuel or has reached a programmed destination/distance or when the alarm clock goes off. A weak alternator may also cause this to beep constantly.

Q: Where can I get help and find out more about my car?
